

In the morning all of the students were working in the groups. We were trying to find out how Icelanders and Lithuanians waste energy and also to give some piece of advice how we can save it.

After a short break we were working in the groups again, but now we were summarizing the work of the whole projects. Students prepared speeches about what have we learned and what skills we have improved in this project. We also compared Iceland and Lithuania geographically, culturally and socially.

single chairs and a few tables were set up for the group. The food and drinks were all provided for us. We were given
